FRICAY AVENIN DEC! MEER 12,

MIXED THE BODIES UP A graesomely humorous incident occurred in Potsdam Sanday last. A certain widow, by name Wachterhausen, had a daughter, Amelia, who had gone to Nice for her bealth, and had there died. The mother telegraphed to an undertaker in that city to forward the body to her. This was apparently done, and in due time a box arrived enclosing an elaborate coffin, which was supposed to contain the body of the maiden. Just as the ceremonles of the fanersi were about to begin, the mother insisted upon having the coffin opened, which was done forthwith, and in place of the young girl there was found the body of an old Russian military officer, dressed in uniform decked out with medals, and holding a naked sword in his medals, and noiding a naked sword in his hand. Telegrams were immediately dispatched to Nice, and it was learned that the bodies had been mixed up, the maiden had gone to Smolensk instead of Potsdam. Then Smolensk was wired, and the Russian authorities were interrogated in every direction. Wednesday answer came saying that has hady of the sound lady had been daily the body of the young lady had been duly buried with full military pomp and circum stance, and a general holiday had been enjoyed to the town to do reverence to what
